Prior to or after the commitment expiration date, the cap may be increased or the commitment to maintain the cap may be terminated only with the approval of the Board of Trustees.

How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

During the period, election results and subsequent policy changes, inflation uncertainty, geopolitical turmoil, and the beginning of Federal Reserve monetary easing kept volatility elevated. After credit spreads tightened into the end of 2024 on optimism surrounding the macroeconomic picture and the impact of the election on corporate fundamentals, spreads widened considerably in early 2025 on policy uncertainty and growth concerns. Our positioning was nimble in response, as we reduced credit exposure to neutral levels in favor of agency mortgage-backed securities (MBS) at the end of 2024. As credit underperformed in 2025, however, we added back to end the period modestly overweight.

Security selection within MBS was the largest contributor to performance during the period, as elevated interest rate volatility and price dislocations continued to provide a fertile opportunity set from which to extract relative value. Security selection within credit also contributed, particularly within the banking, consumer, and health care subsectors. Our underweight to the commercial mortgage-backed securities sector modestly detracted as the sector outperformed.
