How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

Economic and market commentary

Over the past year, U.S. investors balanced opportunity and risk amid shifting central bank policies, postelection trade uncertainties, and bond market volatility. Inflation concerns persisted, but the Federal Reserve held rates steady, supporting economic growth. Global markets faced economic challenges. Mid-2024 rate cuts boosted equities. Postelection political uncertainty weighed on market sentiment. Entering 2025, inflation moderated but shifts in trade policy kept markets volatile.

Significant portfolio changes

The portfolio shifted from an underweight to an overweight duration position. We increased our exposure to inflation-linked bonds while reducing our allocation to equities. We added to our position in gold.

Top contributors

Exposure to equities—particularly precious metals and all cap—added to the portfolio. Exposure to fixed income was the main driver of return across nominal bonds, inflation-linked bonds, and short-dated high yield bonds. Exposure to Tactical Asset Allocation and Dynamic Risk Hedging was additive.

Main detractors

Exposure to alternatives across commodity and price-trend strategies detracted.
