What were the Fund costs for the past year?

The table explains the costs you would have paid within the reporting period based on a hypothetical $10,000 investment.

CLASS NAME	COSTS OF A $10,000 INVESTMENT	COSTS PAID AS A % OF A $10,000 INVESTMENT
Class C	$190	1.98%

The manager has contractually committed to waive fees and/or reimburse certain expenses to the extent necessary to cap the Fund's total annual fund operating expense ratio at a specific amount. Without this cap, the costs shown above may have been higher. Please see the prospectus for the amount and the expiration date of the cap. Prior to or after the commitment expiration date, the cap may be increased or the commitment to maintain the cap may be terminated only with the approval of the Board of Trustees.

How did the Fund perform last year and what affected its performance?

Equities were volatile on inflation concerns, varying economic data, a new administration, tariff uncertainty, and competitive threats around artificial intelligence.

During the quarter, exposure to financials increased while the allocation to industrials decreased.

Mueller Industries, Inc., a top contributor, is an industrial manufacturer of vital goods. Management continues to acquire and consolidate niche players while buying back stock and paying dividends with its net cash balance sheet. We believe Mueller's resilient, strong free cash flow profile and its financial flexibility are underappreciated. Atkore, Inc., a large detractor, manufactures electrical raceway products. Atkore faced headwinds of decreases in selling prices, primarily PVC-related products, and margin pressure from Mexican-imported steel. We believe Atkore should be able to navigate its challenges because of its robust free cash flow generation, under-levered balance sheet, and strong market position. As tariffs are implemented and trade agreements are enforced, Atkore is positioned to benefit. We see Atkore as attractive from a reward/risk perspective.
